Dear Roddy

Thank you very much for your very kind message, with its lovely insights into Nick and his life. He was a truly remarkable man, of brilliance and principle, and full of anecdotes of past happenings. To say he was independent of mind is an understatement, and, in later years his achievements, as a sole operator in P&O and in his E-books were great. I think he was most fulfilled, though, in teaching and helping young people, and he will have left some of his goodness to be replicated in future generations, I hope.

With best wishes to you and Penny, and thanks again.

Anthony.
